Lust and Purity

TRANSFIGURED LIVING

Christ does something truly remarkable at the Transfiguration. He shows a human body that is glorified by grace. Having hidden His glory until this point, with only some miracles to allude to it, He now pulls back the veil. As Luke tells us, "His face changed in appearance and His clothing became dazzling white" (Luke 9:29). Here on Mount Tabor, Christ reveals what can happen when the power of His grace transforms us.

Jesus shows us that our interior life can be transformed. The changing of His face and clothing are icons of the interior glory at the core of His being. As we heard in last week's Gospel, Jesus rejected the devil's temptations in the desert. This was because His interior desires were perfectly ordered to the will of God. The Transfiguration becomes the exterior sign of that invisible reality. Here, we see God's perfect and complete integrity on full display. His Sacred Heart was entirely oriented to the Father, and all of the desires flowing from His humanity were properly ordered by His intellect and will.

PURITY OF MIND AND HEART

Looking at our own lives, this might seem so far away. There are those pesky, annoying, and seemingly perpetual struggles to properly order the desires of our hearts. The passions flare up, and it can seem like we've been compromised. The temptations seem to rage in our minds, almost like we lose control.

These temptations can be particularly powerful when it comes to lust. Aquinas points out that lust compromises the use of the will, and that it is stronger than the other bodily appetites for food or drink. Lust truly can affect our ability to think clearly.

Yet, this is not a cruel fate that we are bound to. Christ's Transfiguration wasn't just for the sake of revealing His glory. It reveals what Christ desires for us as well. Yes, we have fallen to temptations, while He never did. Nevertheless, our humanity and its desires truly can be transfigured by God's grace. While we won't live with the same illuminating radiance as the transfigured Christ, we can live in a way where the desires of our hearts are transformed and reordered. It is possible to live in a way with integrity and the proper ordering of human desires. Despite the lies the devil wants us to believe, it is possible to overcome lust. With God's grace, it is possible to live with purity of mind and heart.

REORDERING OUR DESIRES

How do we do this, though? What can we do to participate in the reordering of our desires?

There are practical things. First, filters and blockers can be helpful for screens. Installing these won't change the heart, but they can help. Second, there are accountability partners. Men should generally choose men, and women should choose women. These are people you check in with regularly. They can encourage, support, challenge, and help you in a variety of ways. Most importantly, though, they can pray for you.

"Transfiguration," Giovanni Battista Paggi, 1596, Church of San Marco, Florence

There are also spiritual things. First, there is the purification of memory. This is a wonderful thing to pray for, and God can transform our minds so those pesky images and memories can be radically transformed and purified. Second, there is fasting and abstinence (good thing it's Lent now!). All of the bodily appetites are intertwined in some way, and curbing some appetites can help us curb other ones too. Putting the body in check and denying ourselves other legitimate good things can help curb the passions with regard to other bodily pleasures as well.

Ultimately, though, it all comes back to the reordering of the desires of the heart, and we should pray for that in particular. If we are stuck in the midst of patterns of sin, this might take some time, but it is entirely possible. With Christian hope, we truly can believe that all things are possible for God (cf. Matthew 19:26).

With the transfigured Christ on Tabor,
Fr. Peter Martyr Yungwirth, O.P.

MUSIC NOTES

Girolamo Frescobaldi was perhaps the most influential Italian composer of keyboard music in the late Renaissance and early Baroque. A child prodigy from Ferrara, Frescobaldi studied under Luzzasco Luzzaschi, the organist of the Este court and associate of the famous ensemble Concerto delle donne. Frescobaldi succeeded Pasquini (who had in turn succeeded Luzzaschi) as organist of the Accademia della Morte in Ferrera and later also followed Pasquini as organist of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome from 1608 until his death, leaving briefly in 1614-1615 to work for the Duke of Mantua, Ferdinando I Gonzaga, and in 1628-1634 to serve the Grand Duke of Tuscany, a Medici at Florence. His work influenced Froberger, Bach, and Purcell, and generally guided the evolution of the Baroque keyboard idiom. Pieces from his celebrated collection of liturgical organ music, Fiori musicali (1635), were used as models of strict counterpoint as late as the 19th century.

THE CONFRATERNITY OF THE MOST HOLY ROSARY

The Rosary Confraternity is a spiritual association of the Catholic Church, the members of which strive to pray the entire Rosary during the course of one week (15 decades). The members also commit to praying for the intentions of all the other members, thus forming a vast army of prayer warriors. Pope Leo XIII said "whenever a person fulfills his obligation of reciting the Rosary according to the rule of the Confraternity, he includes in his intentions all its members, and they in turn render him the same service many times over" (Ubi Primum 1898, 1).
